A Man of Courage in an Inhuman Time

Berthold Beitz in the Third Reich

Bernd Schmalhausen

(2006) ISBN: 965-308-275-2, Cat. No. 446 | 128 pp., soft cover, 14X21 cm.

Berthold Beitz, a young German who arrived in eastern Galicia in July 1941 to work as business manager of an oil refinery, witnessed the ongoing murder of Jews. He decided to take action to save Jews and asked the SS for skilled workers. He then issued false work certificates for them, sheltered and fed them, with the help of his wife. Beitz was honored as a Righteous Among the Nations at Yad Vashem.

A Small Village in Europe: Chelmno (Kulmhof)

The First Nazi Mass Extermination Camp

Shmuel Krakowski

(2009) ISBN: 965-308-332-5, Cat. No. 726 | soft cover, 17X24 cm.

This is the only study on Chelmno, the first death camp on Polish soil and the model for setting up the machinery of mass murder. Mass killings, mostly of Lodz Jews and Gypsies, began in December 1941 and continued until the Red Army liberated the camp in January 1945. Only three people survived Chelmno, and only a few who operated the death camp were ever brought to justice.

At the Mercy of Strangers

The Rescue of Hidden Jewish Children in Poland

Nachum Bogner

(2009) ISBN: 965-308-331-8, Cat. No. 725 | soft cover, 17X24 cm.

Hidden under false identities in cities, on farms and in convents and monasteries, young Jewish children survived the war by the grace of kindhearted strangers. Their story is told by an historian who survived the war as a child. He describes how the emotional closeness so essential for survival made it so hard for the children to leave their host families after the war.

Belgium and the Holocaust

Jews, Belgians, Germans

Edited by Dan Michman

In association with Bar-Ilan University

(1998) ISBN: 965-308-068-7, Cat. No. 223 | 594 pp., hard cover, 16X23 cm.

A broad range of scholars discuss issues such as the make-up of Belgian Jewry before the war; Nazi anti-Jewish policies; attitudes of various segments of Belgian society to the Jews before, during, and after the occupation; Jewish strategies and activities for survival.

"It will undoubtedly succeed in promoting knowledge and encouraging research on the Holocaust in Belgium. Michman and his colleagues have made a fundamental contribution to the historiography of the Holocaust." [Gesher, Summer 2000]

Dividing Hearts

The Removal of Jewish Children from Gentile Families in Poland in the Immediate Post-Holocaust Years

Emunah Nachmany-Gafny

(2009) ISBN: 965-308-330-1, Cat. No. 724 | 400 pp., soft cover, 17X24 cm.

Personal stories of Polish rescuers and Jewish children include "tragedies with no winners". Research on issues involved in the search for hidden Jewish children in the postwar period in Poland, raises questions such as: Why so many organizations? How did they operate? How did the Polish courts deal with the issue? What was the stance of the Church? How did the children react to the transition?

Emanuel Ringelblum

The Man and the Historian

Edited by Israel Gutman

English and Hebrew sections

(2006) ISBN: 965-308-264-7, Cat. No. 435 | 262 pp., soft cover, 15X23 cm.

This publication focuses on Ringelblum's life and activities, the private and the public man, the intellectual and the universal humanist, incorporating his worldview, writings, last letters, description of social activities and the momentous venture he founded in the Warsaw ghetto – the “Oneg Shabbat” Archive.

“The importance of Ringelblum's diary and writings – so important that it should be studied in schools – lies in his complex vision of those terrible days...” [Miri Paz, Makor Rishon, 21 April 2006]

Europe's Crumbling Myths

The Post-Holocaust Origins of Today's Anti-Semitism

Manfred Gerstenfeld

In association with Jerusalem Center for Public Affairs and World Jewish Congress

(2003) ISBN: 965-218-045-9, Cat. No. 307 | 248 pp., soft cover, 17X24 cm.

The book explores how developments in post-Holocaust Europe have prefigured the adversities Israel and the Jews face today, and shows how the “new” antisemitism continues the legacy of discrimination. The author defines six indicators for assessment of antisemitism.

“A timely and valuable contribution to our understanding of the antisemitism of the Third Millennium.” [Joel S. Fishman, Jewish Political Studies Review, Spring 2005]

The Story of the Exchange of Jewish Inmates of Bergen-Belsen with German Templars from Palestine

(1986) Cat. No. 103 | 62 pp., soft cover, 15X23 cm.

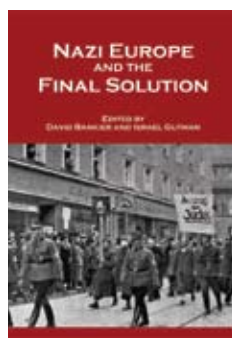

The story of the exchange of Dutch Jews, inmates of Bergen-Belsen, for a group of German Templars living in Palestine, represents one of the most stirring episodes of the Holocaust period. The booklet is a compilation of all the lectures delivered at a 1985 symposium, which made a significant contribution to Holocaust research.

Holocaust Historiography in Context

Emergence, Challenges, Polemics and Achievements

Edited by David Bankier and Dan Michman

(2009) ISBN: 965-308-326-4, Cat. No. 721 | 614 pp., hard cover, 16X23 cm.

A new and thought provoking collection on issues and perspectives in Holocaust research in various countries, with leading historians on the implications of their work. From overviews by Hilberg and Michman through the early beginnings of Holocaust research and the emergence of Jewish research centers, articles focus on the national context of history studies. A stellar lineup of authors include Berg, Browning, Cesarani, de Haan, Engel, Rozett, Yablonka, Weinberg and many others, ranging from Italian Holocaust historiography through Dutch and Hungarian contexts and the Eichmann trial.

I Have been a Stranger in a Strange Land

The Hungarian State and Jewish Refugees in Hungary, 1933-1945

Kinga Frojimovics

(2007) ISBN: 0-9764425-9-0, Cat. No. 476 | 264 pp., soft cover, 15X23 cm.

Pre-dating the German occupation and the appearance of the Eichmann Commando, a Hungarian state “dejewification commando”, the National Central Alien Control Office affiliated with the Ministry of Interior, was already in operation. It regarded the 20,000-25,000 foreign Jews residing in Hungary as a category that could be enlarged to include all Jews deemed “undesirable” by the state. This policy led to the Galician deportations resulting in the first five-digit massacre of Jews during World War II.

Nazi Europe and the Final Solution

Edited by David Bankier and Israel Gutman

(2003) ISBN: 965-308-163-2, Cat. No. 356 | 580 pp., soft cover, 16X23 cm.

Most articles included in this volume tackle the disturbing question of how people reacted when their neighbors were made outcasts, humiliated, deported and later vanished without a trace. Includes selected studies by established scholars as well as by young researchers who attempt to clarify and analyze the attitudes of clerical institutions, official institutions, and resistance organizations.

Previously Unexplored Sources on the Holocaust in Hungary

A Selection From Jewish Periodicals, 1930-1944

Anna Szalai, Rita Horváth, Gábor Balázs

(2007) ISBN: 965-308-300-4, Cat. No. 484 | 190 pp., soft cover, 15X23 cm.

Six studies scrutinize a few relatively unknown periodicals and selected themes from the Hungarian-language Jewish press during the interwar period in formerly Hungarian territory. Articles include an examination of the topics that interested editors, journalists, and readers of the Jewish papers from the 1930s to 1944; strategies Jews chose to address their fate; living in an antisemitic environment; reactions to the events of the war.

Rescue Attempts during the Holocaust

Proceedings of the Second Yad Vashem International Historical Conference – April 1974

Edited by Israel Gutman and Efraim Zuroff

(1977) Cat. No. 108 680 pp., hard cover, 16X23 cm.

One of the most important and sensitive issues in Holocaust research is the topic of rescue attempts during the period of the rise of Nazism and the Hitler period. Articles include the rescue attempts, the missed opportunities, and the deeds of the rescuers, rescued, bystanders, and those who hindered the attempts.

Secret Intelligence and the Holocaust

Collected Essays from the Colloquium at the City University of New York

Edited by David Bankier

In association with Enigma Books

(2006) ISBN: 1-929631-60-X, Cat. No. 5230 | 380 pp., soft cover, 15X23 cm.

When and how did the Allies find out about the Holocaust and what were the intelligence sources that delivered the information? This groundbreaking collection sheds new light on the realities of codebreaking and understanding of what was happening in Nazi-occupied Europe during WWII. Most of the research is based on newly declassified intelligence records.

The Economic Destruction of Romanian Jewry

Jean Ancel

(2007) ISBN: 965-308-291-5, Cat. No. 469 | 370 pp., soft cover, 15X23 cm.

This research reveals the way in which the Romanian regime plundered Jewish assets: systematic plunder in the name and to the benefit of the state and its National Bank; violent campaigning; plunder of businesses, buildings, money accompanied by threats, terror, torture and murder; confiscation of capital and seizure of factories; theft perpetrated by government officials and military personnel and finally confiscation of Jewish property before, during and after the mass murder campaigns in Bessarabia, Bukovina and Transnistria.

The Holocaust

Frequently Asked Questions

Edited by Avraham Milgram and Robert Rozett

In association with The Knesset

(2005) ISBN: 965-308-253-1, Cat. No. 424 | 44 pp., soft cover, 16X23 cm.

The subject of the Holocaust frequently comes up in public and private discussion. Devised by Yad Vashem and published in conjunction with the Knesset, the questions and answers presented in this user-friendly booklet provide an introduction to people of all backgrounds seeking to refresh or enrich their knowledge of the Holocaust.

The Jews Are Coming Back

The Return of the Jews to Their Countries of Origin After WWII

Edited by David Bankier

In association with Berghahn Books

(2005) ISBN: 1-57181-527-9, Cat. No. 386 | 320 pp., soft cover, 16X23 cm.

As WWII ended, masses of Jewish survivors attempted to return to their countries of origin, and they were forced to live together with the perpetrators and bystanders. In many places, the Jews' arrival was met with demonstrations and pogroms.

"...an essential read for scholars of the Holocaust." [Mary McCune, History, Winter 2006]

Facing the Holocaust

Livia Rothkirchen

In association with University of Nebraska Press

(2005) ISBN: 0-8032-3952-4, Cat. No. 3273 | 496 pp., hard cover, 16X23 cm.

The author is one of the world's leading authorities on the history of Czech and Slovak Jewry during the Nazi period. The book, based on a wealth of primary documents from newly opened archives, provides a detailed and comprehensive history of how Nazi rule in the Czech lands was shaped as much by local culture and circumstances as by military policy, showing the extraordinary nature of the Czech Jews' experience.

The Origins of the Final Solution

The Evolution of Nazi Jewish Policy, September 1939 – March 1942

Christopher R. Browning

In association with University of Nebraska Press

(2004) ISBN: 0-8032-1327-1, Cat. No. 3272 | 616 pp., hard cover, 16X23 cm.

In 1939, the Nazi regime made plans to re-draw the demographic map of Eastern Europe, and expel millions of Jews. By late 1941, the plans had shifted from expulsion to systematic and total mass murder of all Jews. This book analyzes the ways the Nazis' racial policies evolved from ethnic cleansing to the "Final Solution". A History Book Club Main Selection; Book of the Month Club Selection; Military Book Club Selection.

Jewish Children in Nazi-Occupied Poland

Early Postwar Recollections of Survival and Polish-Jewish Relations During The Holocaust

Joanna Beata Michlic

Vol 14 (2008, 100 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-324-0, Cat. No. 719

Through an in-depth textual analysis of eyewitness testimonies, the author reconstructs various categories of child survivors and the ways in which they coped with social relations on the Aryan side in Nazi-occupied Poland, using concepts of “performance” pioneered by Goffman. These testimonies bring a new dimension to issues of betrayal and hostility as well as of sacrifice and dedication, creating a broader view of historical representation through pictures of individuals.

Rescue for Money

Paid Helpers in Poland, 1939-1945

Jan Grabowski

Vol 13 (2008, 62 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-325-7, Cat. No. 720

Jan Grabowski describes “the very risky, but also very profitable enterprise” of hiding Jews during the Holocaust in Poland. The current study discusses sheltering Jews in exchange for money as an attempt to act normally in an abnormal situation; those who took money and turned on their “guests” when the money ran out; methodology of help; denunciations; the price and extent of help; specific court cases.

Righteous Among the Nations in France and Belgium

A Silent Resistance

Jeannine (Levana) Frenk

Vol 12 (2008, 92 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-316-5, Cat. No. 706

Rescuers during the Holocaust in France and Belgium show a decidedly more rural and lower socioeconomic character than in other countries. Using the tools of “prosopography”, an approach concerning itself with the person, environment and social status in the context of social structures, and the functions performed by the rescuer in a specific environment, Dr. Frenk discusses additional parameters for broader perspectives.

“And I burned with shame”

The Testimony of Ona Šimaitė, Righteous Among the Nations: A Letter to Isaac Nachman Steinberg

Julija Šukys

Vol 10 (2007, 84 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-282-5, Cat. No. 457

Julija Šukys presents a startling piece of testimony: a letter written by a woman recognized as Righteous Among the Nations and former librarian at Vilnius University to Isaac Nachman Steinberg, the author of a number of books, a socialist revolutionary, and the Commissar of Justice in the Soviet Coalition government of 1917. This letter is unique and describes her activities during the Nazi occupation of Vilnius.

The Shaping of the Holocaust Visual Image by the Nuremberg Trials

The Impact of the Movie “Nazi Concentration Camps”

Yvonne Kozlovsky-Golan

Vol 9 (2006, 44 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-277-9, Cat. No. 2779

Yvonne Kozlovsky-Golan wrote her PhD thesis on Film and American Legal History. Her research deals with history and cinema, the memory of the Holocaust and its penetration into the world’s consciousness through film, the representation of the Holocaust survivor in Israeli feature films over the years, and the visual iconography of the camps.

Persecution, Indifference, and Amnesia

The restoration of Jewish rights in postwar Italy

Ilaria Pavan

Vol 8 (2006, 44 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-271-X, Cat. No. 453

Ilaria Pavan, a scholar of contemporary Italian Jewish history, discusses the sensitive issue of the postwar restitution of Jewish property in Italy looted during WWII. Lacking a system for the automatic return of assets, the reconstruction policies included a cover-up of the local role played in the antisemitic past and persecutions, creating enormous obstacles.

Aspects of Jewish Welfare in Nazi Germany

Proceedings of a study day on the occasion of the publication of Rivka Elkin's book "The Heart Beats On"

Guy Miron, Jacob Borut, Rivka Elkin

Vol 7 (2006, 70 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-257-4, Cat. No. 426

The Jewish welfare system under the Nazi regime played a major role in the life of the Jewish community. The following articles are included: The German and the German-Jewish Welfare Systems and the Nazi Policy of Oppression, Guy Miron; A Historical Perspective on Jewish Welfare Activity in Germany, Jacob Borut; Some Remarks in the Wake of My Book "The Heart Beats On", Rivka Elkin.

Reassessment of the Image of Mordechai Chaim Rumkowski

Michal Unger

---

Vol 6 (2004, 62 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-237-X, Cat. No. 451

Michal Unger surveys the "grey areas" of the still-controversial figure Rumkowski. Will history judge him as a traitor who aided and abetted the Germans in liquidating the Jews of Lodz, or should he be seen as a tragic heroic figure who tried to delay death by employing as many children as possible in the workshop system he set up?

Holocaust diaries as "Life Stories"

Amos Goldberg

Vol 5 (2004, 30 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-230-2, Cat. No. 450

Drawing on linguistics, philosophy, epistemology, cultural politics, life stories theory and more, Goldberg explores how these subjects function in Holocaust diaries and the paradox of narrating a process of "ceasing to exist as a human being" under the Nazis, and how does the construction of human identity through narration occur in a situation of brutal, meaningless violence?

The Invention of "Functionalism"

Josef Wulf, Martin Broszat, and the Institute for Contemporary History (Munich) in the 1960s

Nicolas Berg

Vol 4 (2003, 42 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-184-5, Cat. No. 371

This study by Nicolas Berg describes early postwar efforts to "explain" National Socialism, soon supplanted by structural approaches known as "functionalism". He presents the history of the concept, its concrete German context, impact and interpretation, and proposes a new model.

Generation of the Unbound The Leadership Corps of the Reich Security Main Office

Michael Wildt

Vol 3 (2002, 38 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-162-4, Cat. No. 499

This paper is based on a comprehensive research study. It analyzes the biographies of some 220 people who worked at the front line of the Reich Security Main Office between 1939-1945.

Parenthood and the Holocaust

Dan Bar-On and Julia Chaitin

Vol 1 (2001, 74 pp.)

ISBN: 965-308-133-0, Cat. No. 280

The focus of this study is on the emotional coping abilities of Jewish families who came under Nazi attack and destruction, as well as on the ongoing, long-term impairment of the surviving families' emotional relationships. This impairment affected not only the victims, but their children and grandchildren as well.

The Encyclopedia of the Righteous Among the Nations

Rescuers of Jews during the Holocaust

Editor-in-Chief: Israel Gutman
Hard cover, 22X28 cm.

The concept of "Righteous Among the Nations" is based on the Talmudic saying, "He who saves one human being is as if he saves an entire world". The more than 22,000 Righteous Among the Nations are from all nationalities, religious denominations, and social groups, each with a deeply human story of the preservation of human values in the midst of absolute moral collapse.

"In the darkness of the Nazi occupation, a few lights flickered: the Righteous Among the Nations... Yad Vashem has commemorated those who risked their lives, who heeded nothing but their hearts and their human conscience, and who rescued Jews." [Jacques Chirac, former President of France]

Edited by David Silberklang

Yad Vashem Studies is an academic journal featuring articles on the cutting edge of research and reflection on the Holocaust.

Yad Vashem Studies is a must for any serious library seeking to offer the essential texts on the Nazi era and the Holocaust.

"Yad Vashem Studies has been at the forefront of research into the Nazi persecution and mass murder of the Jews, its origins and its consequences... indispensable for researchers and teachers alike. David Silberklang, as editor, has displayed a remarkable talent for balancing the output of grizzled veterans with the challenging findings of younger researchers... No library that purports to offer students and teachers the essential historical texts on the Nazi era and the fate of the Jews can afford to be without Yad Vashem Studies." [David Cesarani, The Journal of Holocaust Education]

A list of articles will be sent upon request.

Beginning with volume 35 Yad Vashem Studies now comes out twice annually, in spring and fall, making our contributors' important research available to our readers more quickly and more readily. We have also redone our layout in order to make it more reader friendly. Our rigorous high standards remain unchanged.

Volume 36:1 (2008)

The volume is dedicated to the memory of Prof. Leni Yahil, one of the most influential scholars of the Holocaust, who also served as a member of the editorial board for many years, and of Dr. Jean Ancel, one of the world's leading scholars on the Holocaust in Romania. The volume opens with articles analyzing their contributions to the field (Dan Michman and Sarit Shavit on Yahil; Yosef Govrin on Ancel).

The volume includes a section on postwar attitudes towards the Holocaust, with articles that address Orthodox women in DP camps (Judith Baumel-Schwartz), the World Jewish Congress and war crimes trials (Mark A. Lewis), Ben-Gurion and the Eichmann trial (Yehiam Weitz), and Italian Holocaust consciousness after the war (Guri Schwarz). Two articles, by French and Belgian scholars, address Nazi policy-making in the Holocaust (Florent Brayard and Insa Meinen); and two review articles address important new books and trends on the Holocaust (Jan Grabowski and David Cesarani).

Volume 36:2 (2008)

The volume focuses on 1938 and the Kristallnacht pogrom, highlighting many of the multiple factors that ultimately brought about the Holocaust. Among them were the murderous conviction of many alongside the indifference of others, and the helplessness of the Jews to determine their fate.

Opening with an important article by Havi Dreifuss on the first "civilian" bunker diary from the Warsaw Ghetto, it continues with articles by Anton Weiss-Wendt on Baltic Oil Ltd. and Jewish forced laborers; Mordechai Altshuler on Jews in the USSR following the Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact; Béla Bodo on provincial antisemitism in Hungary 1919-1921; Göran Leth on reactions to Kristallnacht in the Swedish press; and review articles by Helmut Walser Smith (on Michael Wildt's book on anti-Jewish violence in Germany) and Ruth Braude on Michael Phayer's book on Pius XII.

Volume 35:1 (2007)

Much of this issue examines the Holocaust in Poland, with research articles by Alina Skibińska and Jakub Petelewicz, on rural Poles' attitudes towards Jews during the Holocaust; Jan Grabowski, on German and Polish courts' treatment of cases involving Jews in occupied Poland; and Tomasz Kranz on records of Majdanek victims and their number. Klaus-Michael Mallmann and Martin Cüppers tell the story of Nazi plans to murder the Jews of Palestine, and Kinga Frojimovics provides a rare, detailed profile of the Hungarian Jewish community on the very eve of its destruction. The issue also includes review articles by: Frank Bajohr on Götz Aly, Klaus-Peter Friedrich on Jochen Böhrer, and Michael Miller on Livia Rothkirchen.

Volume 35:2 (2007)

This issue, dedicated to the memory of Raul Hilberg, opens with Christopher Browning's article on Hilberg's seminal contribution to Holocaust studies and continues with Hilberg's thoughts on the development of Holocaust research. It includes research articles by Yehuda Bauer on Nowogródek and the shtetl in the Holocaust; Judit Pihurik on Hungarian soldiers' diary comments on Jews in the Hungarian Labor Service; and three articles on post-war remembrance: Netanel Cantorovich on the Soviet press and the Eichmann trial; Lilach Marom on Aktion Sühnezeichen in Israel; and Michal Shaul on Israeli ultra-Orthodox remembrance. Review articles by Sanford Gutman on two books on France; Samuel Kassow on three books on the Lodz ghetto; and Omer Bartov on two books on Polish attitudes towards Jews complete this issue.

Volume 34 (2006)

The articles address various aspects of the perpetrators, from Hitler to the bankers in occupied Poland; the impact of prewar perspectives on Jews on local attitudes towards Jews during the Holocaust; postwar issues in Europe; and the press and the Jews during the Holocaust. Among the contributions: Ian Kershaw's analysis of Hitler's role in the Final Solution; Klaus-Peter Friedrich's study of the Polish underground press's reactions to the murder of Jews; Ingo Loose's examination of the role of German credit banks in the Generalgouvernement in Poland; and more.

Volume 33 (2005)

Features two special sections on the Warsaw Ghetto and on postwar issues of memory and attitudes to the subject. The first section includes newly discovered parts of Avraham Lewin's 1942 diary; the written observations of the wife of a member of the first Judenrat; and new research on the role of the ZZW in the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising. The second section includes new research on the attitudes of the Polish Catholic Church to Jews; a study of the memories of hidden child survivors; and an analysis of the beginnings of scholarly Holocaust research in Israel.

Volume 32 (2004)

This volume is dedicated to the memory of Emil L. Fackenheim and opens with Michael Morgan's analysis of his seminal contribution to thought on the Holocaust. The volume centers on two main foci – the Holocaust of Hungarian Jewry, on the occasion of the sixtieth anniversary of those events (Randolph L. Braham, Judit Molnár, Laszlo Karsai, Guy Miron, Anna Szalai, Rita Horvath); and Poles and Jews before, during, and after the Holocaust (Dariusz Libionka, Felicja Karay, Edward Kossoy, Natalia Aleksion).

Volume 31 (2003)

The articles focus on Jewish life in Eastern European ghettos; German anti-Jewish policies on a regional level in the 1930s; neutral powers; and Israeli literature. Review articles and a response to Dov Levin's article on the Jewish police in the Kovno Ghetto (Vol. 28) round out this rich volume. Among the contributors are: Nathan Cohen, Yehuda Bauer, Havi Ben-Sasson, Armin Nolzen, George Browder.

“And God saw that it was bad...”

Otto Weiss

Edited by Art Braunstein

(2009) ISBN: 965-308-335-6, Cat. No. 729

“The narrative documents my father’s worries and disillusionment, marked by his struggle with his beliefs, his doubts, hopes and fears. The text is a sarcastic commentary on life in the Ghetto of Theresienstadt and the extremely difficult relationships between the people living there.” [Helga Weissova Hoskova, the author’s daughter and illustrator of the book]. The story was written in 1943, at a time when it was not yet known that the transports to the East ended in the gas chambers.

The Gurs Haggadah

Passover in Perdition

Edited by Bella Gutterman and Naomi Morgenstern

Available also in Spanish and French | In association with Devora Publishing
(2003) ISBN: 1-930143-33-8, Cat. No. 285 | 104 pp., hard cover, 22X28 cm.

Facsimile edition of a handwritten and hand drawn Passover Haggadah from Gurs detention camp, where Jewish prisoners celebrated the Festival of Freedom behind barbed wire. Mortality was extremely high under inhuman conditions. In the summer of 1942, most of the inmates were transported to Drancy and from there to Auschwitz.

"Despite overcrowding, separation of families, constant hunger, illnesses and daily deaths, the inmates kept their humanity, among others by maintaining an orchestra, theatre, and keeping Jewish tradition." [Shulamit Geva, Ma'ariv, 9 April 1999]

THE HOLOCAUST SURVIVORS' MEMOIRS PROJECT

As Nobel Peace Prize laureate Elie Wiesel has observed, "The Holocaust must never be studied exclusively from the perspective of the perpetrators. Each survivor's story is unique, and adds to our understanding of the Holocaust and the understanding of future generations."

Yad Vashem and the Holocaust Survivors' Memoirs Project, with the World Federation of Bergen-Belsen Associations' assistance, have embarked on a mission to publish Holocaust survivor memoirs in English. With a grant from Random House, this joint project hopes to publish several memoirs annually over the next few years. Our goal is to collect, preserve, and make available to interested readers the autobiographical accounts of Holocaust survivors.

By the Grace of Strangers

Two Boys' Rescue During the Holocaust

Gabriel Mermall; Norbert Yasharoff

(2006, 174 pp.) ISBN: 0-9760739-4-3, Cat. No. 432

Includes two father-son rescue stories. Mermall's diary relates his story as a slave laborer in the Hungarian military's Labor Service and his rescue in 1944 together with his son. Eleven-year-old Yasharoff was forced to move with his family into the Sofia ghetto, an experience that inspired him to express himself through poetry.

Days of Rain

Enzo Tayar

(2004, 282 pp.) ISBN: 0-9760739-0-0, Cat. No. 3901

Drawing on the diary that he kept in 1943, Enzo Tayar recounts the impact on his family and friends of the increasingly severe anti-Jewish measures instituted by Italy after the German invasion. Tayar fled Florence taking refuge on a succession of farms throughout Tuscany. The family was reunited after the liberation.

Escaping Hell in Treblinka

Israel Cymlich; Oskar Strawczynski

(2007, 282 pp.) ISBN: 0-9760739-9-4, Cat. No. 485

Two remarkable documents written by two survivors of that hellish darkness while the authors were still in hiding, unsure if they would succeed in evading the Nazis. Cymlich's memoir provides a rare insight into the Treblinka I forced labor camp's brutal daily life. Strawczynski's memoir is one of the earliest written eyewitness accounts of the August 2, 1943 uprising in Treblinka.

Fighting for Survival

E. H. (Dan) Kampelmacher

(2006, 172 pp.) ISBN: 0-9760739-6-X, Cat. No. 3932

The author left his family and fled his native Vienna to Holland. There he was imprisoned in the state prison at Veenhuizen, where he wrote a diary relating his experiences in 1938. The book goes on to tell of his survival during the war working on Dutch farms, acquiring forged documents from the underground, and in hiding.

Flora, I Was But a Child

Flora M. Singer

(2007, 180 pp.) ISBN: 0-9760739-8-6, Cat. No. 466

This is the gripping story of a young girl hidden with her two little sisters in convents in Belgium during the Holocaust. Their mother's remarkable intuition and initiative, together with the selfless assistance and vigilance of two Righteous Among the Nations, George Ranson and Père (Father) Bruno, helped save them.

How My Father and Uncle Survived Hitler and Cheated Stalin

Alan Elsner

(2005, 256 pp.) ISBN: 0-9760739-1-9, Cat. No. 3918

The story of two Jewish brothers forced to flee Poland in 1939. Arrested by Soviet authorities, they were transported to Arctic labor camps, where they nearly starved to death. Released 18 months later, they traveled thousands of miles across the USSR. They survived, were drafted into the Red Army, and participated in the Soviet advance through Poland and into Germany.

In the Struggle

Leib Reizer

(2009)

A memoir of Grodno, and Reizer's successful escape to the forests with his wife and young daughter, where they survived with partisans and in family camps. In riveting prose, he describes ghetto life in Grodno and in Minsk, the liquidation and his family's escape after he stole guns and ammunition for the partisans in the forests.

Memoirs of an Unfortunate Person

Moty Stromer

(2008, 252 pp.) ISBN: 0-9814686-0-0, Cat. No. 487

Marek (Moty) Stromer lived with his entire family in Kamionka until the outbreak of WWII. His memoirs recount his experiences in the Lemberg ghetto, the vicious treatment he suffered at the hands of local Ukrainians, his imprisonment in the Janowska forced labor camp, his escape from a deportation transport to the Belzec death camp, and ultimate rescue in the barn of his Christian neighbor.

On the Fields of Loneliness

Hersch Altman

(2006, 184 pp.) ISBN: 0-9760739-7-8, Cat. No. 442

The remarkable memoir of a young boy, who survived the murder of his family and the destruction of his town, while evading his pursuers. He vividly depicts his early years in Brzeżany, and the hardships of the Soviet occupation. He relates the brutality of the Nazi occupation, the intolerable life in the ghetto and the ingeniously constructed bunker that eluded the Nazi soldiers.

NEW

Path of Hope

Menachem Katz

(2008, 214 pp.) ISBN: 0-9814686-1-7, Cat. No. 717

Menachem Katz relates his escape from the mowing down of the last Jews of Brzeżany at the cemetery in 1943 through his experiences hiding in a bunker with seven other people. He describes life in hiding in detail, as well as the relationship with a family of Poles who assisted them in survival.

Stolen Youth

Five Women's Survival in the Holocaust

Isabelle Choko-Sztrauch-Galewska; Frances Irwin; Lotti Kahana Aufleger; Margit Raab Kalina; Jane Lipski

(2005, 336 pp.) ISBN: 0-9760739-2-7, Cat. No. 419

Includes the memoirs of five young women. The paths of some of them crossed, whether in Auschwitz, Bergen-Belsen, or elsewhere. Each woman tells the story of her own survival and the fate of her family, from Poland, Transnistria, Czech Silesia, prison in the Soviet Union, Slovakia and other countries, to liberation.

Yesterday: My Story

Hadassah Rosensaft

(2005, 210 pp.) ISBN: 0-9760739-3-5, Cat. No. 3932

Dr. Rosensaft, imprisoned in Auschwitz-Birkenau and Bergen-Belsen, kept 149 Jewish children alive until liberation, and then served as administrator of the camp's hospital. She was a leader of the Jewish DPs in the British Zone of Germany, was one of the witnesses at the first trial of Nazi war criminals, and played a pivotal role in the creation of the US Holocaust Memorial Museum.

An Arduous Road

Samuel Bak: 60 Years of Creativity

Edited by Yehudit Shendar

Bilingual English/Hebrew edition

(2006) ISBN: 0-9764425-6-6, Cat. No. 456 | 104 pp., soft cover, 20X24 cm.

Viewers joining the six-decade-long journey of Samuel Bak's works, as presented in this catalog, are presented with a multi-faceted experience – an encounter with an artist dealing head-on with the basic question of “how” underlying the language of art, with an artist debating with himself about the abstract, the figurative and the gamut between them. A unique and private experience through art.

Besa

A Code of Honor: Muslim Albanians who Rescued Jews During the Holocaust

Photographer: Norman Gershman

Curator of Exhibition: Yehudit Shendar

(2008) Cat. No. 2688 | 40 pp., soft cover, 22X22 cm.

Following the German occupation in 1943, the Albanian population, in an extraordinary act, refused to comply with the occupier's orders to turn over lists of Jews residing within the country's borders. The remarkable assistance afforded to the Jews was grounded in Besa, a code of honor, which still today serves as the highest ethical code in the country.

Double Signature

Portraits of Personalities from the Terezin Ghetto

Max Plaček

Bilingual English/Hebrew edition

(1994) Cat. No. 56 | 100 pp., soft cover, 23X30 cm.

These drawings force us to re-examine the question of spiritual courage, man's struggle to preserve his humanity; in our context, Plaček makes us look at life in the Terezin ghetto in the shadow of death, a life that ended – for most of the people that he drew – in the death camps. It should be perceived as an arresting artistic document as well as a topical historical record.

Bilingual English/Hebrew edition

(2006) ISBN: 965-308-272-8, Cat. No. 2728 | 72 pp., soft cover, 23X30 cm.

Catalog of an exhibition in which survivors, the second generation and contemporary artists, express their reactions to the Holocaust through art. Each generation has its own mode of representation and form of expression. They differ from each other in the content and form of their artistic expression, but not in their ultimate purpose – to touch upon the “There” while concurrently touching the viewer.

My Homeland

Holocaust Survivors in Israel

Curator of Exhibition: Yehudit Shendar

Bilingual English/Hebrew edition

(2008) Cat. No. 702 | 65 postcards, 12X17 cm.

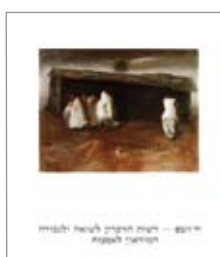

To mark Israel's 60th anniversary, the exhibition reveals the highly influential presence of Holocaust survivors in the public sphere since the State's establishment. The survivors bound the rehabilitation of their personal lives to the project of national renaissance and quickly integrated into all realms of Israeli enterprise. Many were prominent and influential figures in Israeli public life, and created images and symbols that express what it is to be Israeli.

The Early Years, 1938-1957

Rachel Sukman

Bilingual English/Hebrew edition

(1992) Cat. No. 1944 | 56 pp., soft cover, 21X27 cm.

Osias Hofstatter was nine years old when he was forced to begin his wanderings. At the outbreak of WWII, he was thirty-five, in the prime of his life, yet without a home and not yet an artist, when he became a concentration camp prisoner. Paradoxically, this was when Hofstatter began doing his first drawings: portraits, faces of fellow-inmates, scenes of the camp. It is as if not only a way of life was imposed upon him there, but also his art.

Written and edited by Yehudit Inbar

(2007) ISBN: 0-9764425-5-8, Cat. No. 483 | 204 pp., hard cover, 23X23 cm.

The unique voice of women is presented in this catalog. Focusing on the position of women and the ways in which they coped with radical situations, since they applied their minds to a place that deprived them of their minds; brought strength to a place where they had no strength; in a place where they and their families had no right to live, they marched all the way to death and turned every additional moment of life into a meaningful moment.

The Story of a Transport

Edited by Israel Gutman and Bella Gutterman

Available also in Spanish and German

In association with the Auschwitz Museum, Poland

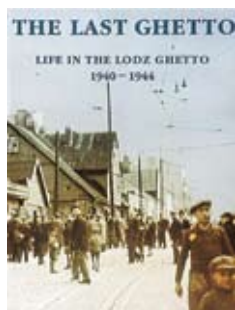

(2002) ISBN: 965-308-149-7, Cat. No. 347 | 278 pp., hard cover, 23X31 cm.

This unique album documents, in about 200 photos taken from all angles, the process of arrival, selection, confiscation of property and preparation for murder of a Jewish transport from Carpatho-Ruthenia, a region annexed in 1939 to Hungary from Czechoslovakia, which arrived at the ramp of Auschwitz-Birkenau in May 1944. This edition includes a picture that had been missing for years, and the identity of some of the deportees.

"The photographs... are very powerful, allowing a glimpse into the very core of the inferno... Readers of this book are therefore sentenced to being tossed back and forth, between the urge to keep poring over this unique historical document and not to turn their eyes away, and the sense of unease that this magnetic hold over them creates." Edited by Michal Unger

Bilingual English/Hebrew edition

(1995) ISBN: 965-308-045-8, Cat. No. 114 | 228 pp., soft cover, 23X30 cm.

The Lodz Ghetto, sealed in May 1940, was one of the first ghettos established by the Germans, and the longest-lived in Eastern Europe. It survived until late August 1944. This monograph presents photographs and documents from Lodz, including elements typical of other ghettos in Poland as well as aspects that are particular to Lodz alone.

The Pictorial History of the Holocaust

In association with Macmillan Publishing Company

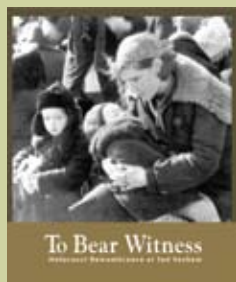

(1990) ISBN: 0-02-897011-X, Cat. No. 78 | 396 pp., hard cover, 26X30 cm.

This extraordinary compilation of photos, maps, and explanatory text, with rare photographs combined with a concise history, form one of the most unique and informative reference works on the Holocaust. Many of the book's more than 400 photographs were taken at a time when such photography was against the law in Germany and its occupied lands, providing haunting proof of Nazi genocide, brave resistance and hopes for a new life.

The Visit of Pope John Paul II to Yad Vashem, Jerusalem. March 23, 2000

(2000) Cat. No. 294 | 40 pp., soft cover, 21X27 cm.

Remarks by the late Pope John Paul II on his historic visit to Yad Vashem in March 2000 emphasize the imperative of remembering the Holocaust. He stressed the uniqueness and centrality of the Holocaust in the history of Western Christian civilization. An ideology as warped and destructive as the Nazi ideology could have developed "only in the absence of God" amidst the disappearance of basic human values.

Articles by Joan Ockman, Moshe Safdie, Avner Shalev, Elie Wiesel

(2006) ISBN: 3-03778-070-3, Cat. No. 5321 | 136 pp., hard cover, 24X30 cm.

Yad Vashem was founded in 1953, and its first building was inaugurated in 1957. Over the years a series of institutional spaces and memorials, gardens, and artworks were added, culminating in Spring 2005 with the inauguration of a major new centrepiece, a Holocaust History Museum and ancillary structures, designed by Moshe Safdie. This book explores how architecture copes with commemoration.

Mardochee Maxi Librati, jeune juif sépharade de la communauté de la banlieue de Lyon, est l'aîné de 13 enfants. Il se retrouve seul, à 18 ans, face à la barbarie nazie. Tout au long de son combat contre l'horreur quotidienne, il restera optimiste, et croira en sa bonne étoile. À Auschwitz-Birkenau, il pense naïvement qu'il va travailler. Il a été sélectionné pour nettoyer le ghetto de Varsovie, ensuite il échappera à la mort dans les marches de Varsovie-Kovno et de Dachau à Kaufering. C'est après une dernière marche Kaufering-Allach qu'il sera libéré par les américains. Il entamera une résurrection qui le portera à une réussite sociale hors pair, sans jamais oublier ceux qui n'avaient pas eu sa chance et dont il défend maintenant la mémoire.

Ицхак Арад

Центр «Ткума»

(2007) ISBN: 966-383-102-2, ББК: 9119 | 816 стр., мягкая обложка, 15X23 см.

В книге описываются исторические события, связанные с жизнью, борьбой и уничтожением евреев, проживавших на территориях СССР, которые в годы Второй мировой войны временно захватила армия нацистской Германии. Исследование охватывает Советский Союз в границах на 22 июня 1941 г. – день нападения Германии на СССР. Публикуемые в книге изыскания опираются на архивные документы из немецких, советских и еврейских источников.

Сборник Яд Вашем – 1

Под редакцией Дэвида Шильберкленга

(2009) ISBN: 965-308-334-9, ББК: 728 | мягкая обложка, 17X24 см.

Сборник, посвященный Холокосту на территории Советского Союза, содержит семь научных статей и одно документальное свидетельство. Представленные статьи освещают такие вопросы, как положение советских евреев накануне Холокоста; эвакуация и бегство евреев из западных областей СССР летом 1941 года; нацистская политика геноцида на советских территориях; присвоение еврейской собственности оккупантами в ходе Холокоста; участие советских евреев в партизанском движении; а также память о Холокосте в послевоенном Советском Союзе. Авторы статей – ведущие израильские историки Холокоста и советского еврейства (Ицхак Арад, Дов Левин, Мордехай Альтшулер и другие), и немецкий историк Второй мировой войны Юрген Фёрстер.

На шаг впереди

Давид И. Азриэли (Азрилевич) Мемуары: 1939-1950

записанно Даной Азриэли

(2002) ISBN: 965-308-142-х, ББК:325 | 176 стр., мягкая обложка, 13X21 см.

Это увлекательная и динамичная книга о мужестве человека, пережившего Вторую мировую войну. Спасаясь от смертельной опасности, стремясь быть хотя бы на шаг впереди врага, Азриэли проделал необычный маршрут: из оккупированной СССР Польши, через Украину, Ташкент и Бухару, вступив в польскую армию Андерса, он прибыл в Багдад, а затем к границе Палестины. Мемуары охватывают также прибытие в подмандатную Палестину, студенческие годы в Технионе, воинскую службу в Хагане и участие в битве за Латрун в 1948.

Это мы

Пережившие Катастрофу – в Государстве Израиль

Под редакцией: Белла Гутерман, Хана Яблонка, Авнер Шалев

(2009) ISBN: 965-308-333-2, ББК: 727 | 310 стр., твердая обложка, 25X31 см.

В честь шестидесятилетия Государства Израиль был выпущен альбом, излагающий волнующую и драматическую повесть об интеграции в израильском обществе людей, переживших Катастрофу и возвеличивающий их беспримерное мужество и тот глубокий и яркий след, который они оставили в нем во всех областях деятельности. Сотни фотографий, стихи, проза и ряд произведений искусства, представленные в альбоме, приглашают читателя в путешествие во времени совместно с пережившими Холокост, ведя рассказ об их судьбе начиная с движения «Бриха», через опасности и тяготы переезда в Землю Израиля на кораблях нелегальных иммигрантов, пребывание в лагерях интернированных на Кипре – и вплоть до наших дней. Это – путешествие по нелегким путям израильской самоидентификации, на которых пережившие Катастрофу оставили неизгладимую печать.
